When you provide us with marketing consent, we measure the success of our marketing campaigns by analysing your behaviour and ensuring that our messages reach the right people, using pseudonymised data. Once you have given your consent, we may also use a unique identifier (user ID) to track your activity on different websites, browsers or devices.

Please note that giving marketing consent is completely voluntary and failure to give consent will not affect our business relationship in any way.

7.1. What personal data do we use in connection with marketing consent?

The specific data used to better target and personalise ads depends on how the ad is targeted/personalised. In most cases, these are the following categories of personal data:

- The data on the place of purchase is mainly used for geographic targeting.
- Information about your previous purchases, your use of our online store, your favourite product categories, whether you like special offers, how often you shop, the average value of your orders, whether you are a member of one of our clubs (Premium, Tickle), whether you shop on the website or through the app, etc. is used to train interest and behaviour targeting.

In addition, we also process the reactions to the displayed ads (e.g. clicks, visits to the online shop, etc.) to evaluate the success of the campaigns.

We use pseudonymised data to target and personalise ads. Pseudonymisation is the processing of personal data whereby the data can no longer be linked to an individual without the use of additional information, and whereby this additional information is stored separately and secured by technical and organisational measures to ensure that the data cannot be unlawfully linked to an individual.

7.2. How do we get the marketing contribution?

On the banner or on the webshop pages, you can decide whether you want to give your marketing consent by checking the "Yes" active box or the "No" active box. Once you have made your choice, the banner will disappear. If you do not provide us with your consent, we will offer you the opportunity to provide your marketing consent again after 30 days from the date of refusal. From then on, we will leave it up to you. If you change your mind at any time, you can change your preferences as described below.

7.4. Who are our partners and what data do we share with them?

Our partners are: endemic advertisers (suppliers), such as FMCG, and non-endemic advertisers (non-suppliers), such as automotive, telecoms, travel and hospitality, media and entertainment, consumer electronics and technology, financial services (banking, payments, insurance) and retail.

We do not pass on any individual data to our partners. The above categories of personal data (within the scope of the advertising targeting method) are only used to create the so-called audience segments for displaying a specific advertisement according to the parameters we choose (if it is our advertisement) or our partner gives us. All this is based on the data available to us and collected in the course of your purchase from Kifli and movement on Kifli. We classify you (through your device) into one of the target groups and display the ad of your choice (our ad or your partner's ad). We then use the data on your reaction to the display of the ad to evaluate the success of a particular advertising campaign and to improve the effectiveness of the targeting/application of the ads.

7.5. How long do we use personal data on the basis of marketing consent?

If you give consent for marketing purposes, we will process your personal data for the duration of that consent (i.e. until you withdraw it).

7.6. What tools do we use for targeted and personalised advertising?
